Was Defeated Twice Before; Chances in Senate Are Poor

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A human rights bill, designed to help prevent racial or religious discrimination in Missouri, passed the House today after being defeated twice before.

It now goes to the Senate where even the strongest supporters predicted it has little chance this late in the session.

City Requests Exemption Step Be Taken

Asks Real Property Of Water Co. Cut From Tax Lists

The City of Sedalia has asked the Pettis County Court to order removed from the assessment lists as of April 1 the real property of the Sedalia Water Co., now owned by the city, so that the city will not have to pay taxes on the property for the remaining nine months of this year.

The old water company arranged to pay the taxes for the first three months by deducting that amount from the purchase price of the property. The city now contends, according to the petition filed Tuesday morning, that the city is tax exempt and that, therefore, the property should not be continued on the assessment lists as of April 1, the date the property changed hands.

Based on 1956 figures, almost $11,500 is involved, but the assessment this year will be higher because of improvements made since last year's assessment.

The petition, submitted by William F. Brown, city counselor, stated that the Revised Statutes of Missouri of 1949 declare that lands and other property belonging to any city are exempted from taxation for state, county or local purposes.

The petition informed the court that at the time of the transfer, an amount was deducted from the purchase price equal to one-fourth of the total tax liability of the water company based on the 1956 assessed valuation of the property. The total figure for 1956 was $15,279.18.

In effect this would mean that the old water company was footing the bill for the taxes for the first three months, up to the time the sale took effect and the water company became city-owned.

The petition also states that the city is now ready to pay that one-fourth to the county collector as the pro-rata taxation for 1957. It also says that since the county assessor does not have the authority to remove property from the assessment lists, the city is asking the county court for the court's order to the assessor, instructing him to make the removal.

The county court has asked Prosecuting Attorney Harold Barrick for his opinion as to whether the city really is exempt from paying taxes for the remaining nine months of this year. It has also asked Barrick to arrange a hearing on the matter.

Comet Still Visible

The comet in the western sky is still visible, according to Russell Maag, local amateur astronomer. However, it is considerably fainter.

The best way to see it, he said, is to travel northwest of town so that the city glare won't interfere with the visibility of the "tail." The comet is now a little higher in the sky than formerly, just north of where the sun sets, and the best hours for viewing are between sundown and about 10 p.m.

Marshall Elected Mayor at Knob In Vote Monday

A good turnout of voters Monday elected O'Bannon Marshall as new mayor of Knob Noster for a two-year term in a special election held at the American Legion Hall. Marshall was the only name on the ticket and received 111 votes.

However, Ray Baker was given strong support for the post by receiving a total of 83 write-in votes, including four absentees. Other write-ins were H. A. Wimer, one vote, and Robert Overbey, one vote. The post was left vacant with the resignation of Baker on April 6, following his election on April 2.

US May Pay 40 Per Cent Of UN Cost

Proposed Financial Arrangements Need Congress Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Congress approves, the United States will pay about 40 per cent or $6,583,000, of the cost of the United Nations' peace-keeping force in the Middle East.

The special force, made up of contingents from countries with no direct interest in the Middle East crisis, was sent into Egypt after the British-French-Israeli invasion.

The proposed financial arrangements were disclosed yesterday with publication of closed-door testimony taken April 2 by a House Appropriations subcommittee. They are included in a special bill providing funds for agencies which overspent their appropriations.

Other testimony released showed that closing of the Suez Canal cost the U. S. Navy an extra eight million dollars for fuel transportation.

The State Department reported it had spent about a million dollars evacuating 3,213 persons from the afflicted area. Some of these costs, but not all, will be repaid, witnesses said.

Testimony about the cost of the U. N. Emergency Force came from Asst. Secretary of State Francis O. Wilcox, who told the subcommittee the proposed U. S. contribution is made up of two components.

The first, $3,333,000, represents approximately a third of the 10 million dollars the United Nations originally estimated the force would cost. This cost was assessed against the U. N. members in proportion to their regular U.N. contributions.

Jordan's King Rejects Soviet Charge That US Is Interfering in His Affairs

US Accuses Communists of Intervention

State Department's Statement Implies Reds Meant Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States charged today that "international communism," serving as agent for the Soviet Union, was guilty of foreign intervention in Jordan.

A State Department statement implied that the aim of the intervention was a Red takeover in the country.

State Department press officer Lincoln White in issuing the statement declined to say on behalf of the United States that the crisis in Jordan is considered now to be over.

Told that King Hussein had commented to that effect, White said: "I don't know how to characterize it—the King is in a better position to know than I."

Russia charged through its Foreign Office yesterday that the United States was responsible for any "grave consequences" that might develop in the Middle East as a result of Western, and particularly United States, intervention in Jordan.

White told a news conference today that "there has indeed been foreign intervention in that country; namely, as King Hussein said on April 24, the intervention of international communism."

Court Restrains MoPac Faction From Suit Move

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A preliminary injunction was issued yesterday restraining a group of Missouri Pacific Railroad stockholders from prosecuting a suit against the company in circuit court at Independence, Mo.

The injunction was issued by Federal District Judge George H. Moore who gave three reasons for it.

He held the state suit would interfere with the Missouri Pacific's reorganization plan, would impair the railroad's efficiency and would subject its directors to "irrevocable expenses and loss of time."

The suit is part of a proxy battle between the present management and stockholders favoring a rival group of candidates for election to the board of directors.

Thomas B. Shearman of Lake Charles, La., asked the state court to postpone a stockholders meeting set for May 14 in St. Louis to elect five directors.

Shearman also asked that the railroad be required to elect 15 directors annually instead of naming five each for three-year terms.

Missouri's Weather Forecast Omits Rain

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Missouri's weather forecast today was different—it had no mention of rain.

Rains have ended in southern Missouri. It'll be cloudy over the state today and tomorrow with little change in temperature, the Weather Bureau said.

In the 24 hours ended at 6:30 a.m. today Springfield received .61 of an inch of rain. Joplin recorded .10 and Butler .09.

Tomorrow's top temperatures are expected to be 75 to 85.

Cities Begin Sandbagging

Farmers in Texas Lowlands Watch Flood Ruin Plantings

DALLAS (AP)—Farmers in many Texas river lowlands who hadn't made a good crop in seven years of drought today saw this year's plantings ruined by flood.

Meanwhile, some cities along Texas' major streams began sandbagging and throwing up levees in a desperate effort to prevent water damage.

The highest flood in the history of the Sabine River was predicted for the upper Sabine. Major floods were expected on other streams.

In the Cuero vicinity, thousands of acres of bottomlands were flooded by the Guadalupe. Crop damage was reported heavy around Navasota on the Brazos, with an estimated 30,000 acres in Washington and adjoining counties under water.

Some of the crops can be replanted when water subsides.

At Freeport, workers were throwing up sandbags around plant "B" of the Dow Chemical Co., where the crest of the Brazos flood was expected by tomorrow.

The Liberty City Council voted to build levees around the Oak Forest section, into which water from the Trinity already was creeping.

Virtually every major river in east and south central Texas was surging near or above major flood stages.

The Weather Bureau predicted another five days of the devastating heavy rain that has lashed the state for almost two weeks, flooding lowlands and forcing thousands of persons to evacuate their homes.

The April floods and tornadoes have been declared by the Red Cross as the worst disasters in the history of its Texas operations.

The Small Business Administration yesterday designated eight counties as disaster areas because of floods and tornadoes. These include Dallas, Tarrant, Bell, Coryell, Williams, McLennan, Smith and Gregg.

The action makes home and business owners whose property was damaged eligible to apply for rehabilitation construction loans at 3 per cent interest rates.

The worst flood threat in the state appeared to be on the Sabine River, which runs along the eastern boundary with Louisiana.

The Weather Bureau at Shreveport, La., which handles the upper Sabine, issued flood warnings for its entire length, from the headwaters deep in northeast Texas to the Gulf of Mexico.

His Government Indicates It Will Accept US Offer of Aid

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — King Hussein today rejected Soviet allegations that the United States is interfering in Jordan's affairs.

"Everything that took place in Jordan was of our own doing, and it was what we believe and still believe was right for the interests of this country," he declared.

The 21-year-old King told a crowded news conference in the royal palace "I can assure you the crisis in Jordan is ended."

Yesterday the United States disclosed that it had offered 10 million dollars in economic aid to Jordan, and Hussein's new government indicated it would be accepted, provided that it did not commit the country to the Eisenhower Doctrine.

Talks on the American offer to bolster the country's shaky economy—previously dependent on the bounty of Saudi Arabia, Egypt and Syria—already were under way.

The Soviet Union, meanwhile, accused the United States of heading a plot to deprive the Arab countries of their freedom. Moscow charged that the past three weeks of crisis in Jordan and other Middle East tensions resulted from the desire of "American billionaires" to become rulers of the area.

The U. S. Embassy announced the 10-million-dollar aid offer in recognition of the "brave steps taken by His Majesty King Hussein and the government and people of Jordan to maintain the integrity and independence of their nation."

In Washington, State Department spokesman Lincoln White said the Jordan government had requested the aid last weekend. White emphasized that it would come out of regular foreign aid funds, not from the 200 million dollars authorized to combat communism under the Eisenhower Doctrine.

Indicating the offer would be accepted, Foreign Minister Samir Rifai, told newsmen:

"We would welcome any assistance from anywhere provided it is offered unconditionally and would not interfere in any way with the freedom, sovereignty and independence of Jordan."

Rifai said the Eisenhower Doctrine "isn't the issue before this government," and that Jordan has no intention of inviting James P. Richards, the U. S. President's special Middle East envoy, to come to Amman to explain the anti-Communist doctrine.

Hussein and his new government already have made important strides in ridding Jordan of Communist and leftist elements. But because of the deep impression made on the Jordan public by Egyptian and Syrian propaganda blasts against the Eisenhower plan, any move to associate Jordan with it would almost certainly bring another upheaval.

Officials of the U. S. operations mission to Jordan began talks with government officials on ways to use the new funds. The mission director, Harold S. Nelson, said the 10 million dollars is in addition to five million already on hand for development projects in Jordan.

Doctor States Ike's Vacation Helped Health

Physician Reports President Gained Weight During Rest

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President Eisenhower made ready to head back to Washington today and his doctor reported the chief executive's Georgia vacation has been "very beneficial" to his health.

The White House physician, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, sent word to newsmen that the President gained two pounds in 13 days and the nagging cough he developed in January has been "virtually eliminated."

James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary, said Eisenhower still coughs "occasionally," and added:

"The doctors expect that he will for some time."

Asked why the doctors look for remnants of the cough to hang on, Hagerty replied:

"You ask anybody that has a cough. I am not a doctor and I am just relating what the doctors tell me."

Facing tough international problems and the job of trying to push his legislative program through Congress, Eisenhower arranged to leave by plane for Washington in the early afternoon. The trip takes a bit less than two hours.

During the morning Eisenhower got in a last round of golf at the Augusta National Club. That kept intact his record of 18 holes a day during the vacation.

As for Snyder's report on the state of the President's health, Hagerty said:

"The doctor tells me that in his opinion these days down here have been very beneficial to the President. The warm sun and the exercise the President has been able to get here have virtually eliminated the cough that he had when he first came down, although he does cough occasionally. And the doctors expect he will for some time."

"The President has gained two pounds since he has been here. He is back up to 172 pounds."

Sen. McCarthy Said 'Responding Well' To Hospital Treatment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) was reported "responding well" to treatment at Bethesda Naval Hospital for acute hepatitis — inflammation of the liver.

That was the report issued last night by a hospital spokesman who said the senator's condition "is considered serious but not critical." He said McCarthy was slightly improved since yesterday morning.

McCarthy was admitted to the hospital at 5 p. m. Sunday. He has been in an oxygen tent.

The senator's office said he had not complained of being ill last week. He has been treated at Bethesda twice in the last two years for an old knee injury.

WAFB Officer Will Retire From Service

Chief Warrant Officer William D. Morgan, base material facilities officer, will retire Tuesday, April 30, after more than 21 years in the military service.

In his job as officer in charge of the material facilities branch of Base Supply, Morgan has directed the receiving, storing and issuing of all supplies coming into Whiteman, except munitions and petroleum, since his arrival at Whiteman in 1954.

Morgan enlisted in the Army Field Artillery at his home in Lubbock, Tex., in 1931 and remained in the Army for six years until his discharge in 1937. He reentered the service at the start of WW II, serving in the South Pacific, Australia, the Solomon Islands and New Caledonia. While in New Caledonia in 1943, Morgan, then a staff sergeant, was acting base commander of a P-38 assembly base for a period of three months.

After returning from overseas in 1944, he was assigned to Malden AFB, Mo. His assignments after Malden included recruiting duty in South Carolina and supply officer at Carswell AFB Tex., and Polk Field, Ft. Bragg, North Carolina.

At Polk Field during a reduction of forces immediately following the war, Morgan once held 13 primary duties for nine months. Included in the jobs, any one of which is a major position in itself, were those of base supply, salvage, petroleum, surplus property and purchasing and contracting officer.

Morgan came to Whiteman in September, 1954, after a two-year tour of duty in Sidi-Slimane, Morocco. He and his wife, Betty, now residing in Knob Noster, plan to live on a small farm near Lynchburg, Va., after his retirement.

Whiteman AFB Plans To Expand Activities For Youth on Base

Big plans to expand the Whiteman Air Force Base youth activities were discussed recently by the Base Dependent Youth Council, headed by Lt. Col. Harold J. Lent, base director of material.

The Council met to formulate plans for the expansion of the present Teen-Town, to activate a full Boy and Girl Scout program and organize a Little League baseball organization for aspiring young ball players. Under discussion also was the establishment of a youth center on the base, a Dramatic Club (Little Theater), junior rifle team, swimming and lifeguard courses (with help of the Red Cross) as well as a Fisherman's Club and Boating Club.

The Council expects to step up the Teen-Town program this summer with more dances, picnics, swimming parties, hayrides, bowling and other enjoyable youth activities.

A supervised playground and recreational area is also under advisement by the Council.

Animals at Dallas Zoo to Go on Diet To Reduce Weight

DALLAS (AP)—Some of the hoofed animals at the Dallas Zoo will pay a heavy price for their new home due to be completed this summer.

They're going on a diet to trim some excess pounds added during their pampered isolation on the far side of the zoo, away from the watchful scrutiny of the keepers. It has made them fat and sassy, says Zoo Director Pierre Fontaine, and in need of a general trimming down.

Those extra pounds may even have cost the zoo several hundred dollars, he says, because overweight animals seldom have offspring.

And among the top-heavy inmates are Napoleon II and Josephine, the zoo's male and female camels. They are not expected to produce an addition this year Fontaine says, because they are overweight. And a young camel could be sold for $1,400 to $1,700.

Nearly 16,000 Students Take Driver Course

When the final school bell rings this spring, thousands of students trained in high school driving courses will be on the streets and highways of Missouri to show the public what they have learned.

One thing is certain — if they learned their lessons well they will be careful, safe drivers.

According to Col. Hugh H. Waggoner, superintendent of the Missouri Highway Patrol, all available figures indicate the nearly 16,000 high school students who have taken the course in the past two years "will be better drivers, and will help save lives on the highways."

The Patrol chief said driver training courses in Missouri have been increasing for the past several years. He gave these figures on the increase: From 1954 to 1955, 36 per cent of the eligible students took driver training courses. This was 26 points below the national average. The picture improved during the next two years.

From 1955 to 1956, about 40 per cent of the eligible students completed the course, 16 percentage points below the national average. The number of schools giving the course has been on a steady rise.

Officials of the State Department of Education said last week the driver training picture in Missouri is improving this year. They said more students are enrolled in more courses.

"The important thing to remember," Col. Waggoner said, "is that driver education is no hit or miss proposition. Youths taking the course learn to drive the right way, and there is no chance for bad habits to sneak in during the training period, which is the most important time in a driver's life."

There is no doubt about the influence driver education has on the student. But there is still a long way to go. There are too many students not taking the course, and there are too many schools that have not added it to their curriculum.

MONROE, Wis. (AP)—Sheriff's deputies went into action when an excited motorist reported seeing a man "force a woman into the trunk of a car, close the lid and drive away."

Officers found the car at a local garage and ordered the owner to open the trunk. Inside was a garage mechanic trying to locate the source of a squeak for the owner.

The motorist who called police apparently had mistaken the mechanic's long shop coat for a woman's topcoat.

Six Persons Claim Money Found in Barn

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (AP)—State trooper John Holman has $150. The trouble is there are six persons willing to accept it.

The money was found in a barn by Albert Beckle, 8; George Snaresell, 9; and Ronald Newtze, 9. Their parents made them divide the money and put it in a bank in case a claim was filed.

Claims were filed by James Show, who rents the barn, and Mrs. Harry Klingensmith, who owns the property.

The former owner, Mrs. Ella Kalajainen, also put in a claim. She said her nephew left the money in the barn before he died about six years ago.

Home Builder Says Housing Is Menaced

WASHINGTON (AP)—A home builder said today that unless housing catches up quickly with population growth, the next decade will bring "the worst housing shortage in all our history."

In a tart speech prepared for the 45th annual meeting of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, President George S. Goodyear of the National Assn. of Home Builders declared: "We will be the best-dressed, best-fed, healthiest and fastest-moving nation of tent-dwellers on earth."

"Of course we know we are not going to live in tents. If private industry defaults then the government will do the job."

"Then our great housing industry—the builder, the lender and the manufacturer—truly will be subsidized and socialized."

Goodyear deplored the government's tight-money policy and the "delay, disagreement and do-nothing" which he said have killed the GI housing program and depressed industries which supply materials and equipment for new dwellings.

"Make no mistake about it," the Charlotte, N. C., builder said "our population is growing faster than the vision of our leaders."

"About 1,600,000 young couples are getting married each year and we are producing fewer than 900,000 new homes to house them. "By 1965, our population will hit a high of 193 million and there will be no 'postponing' of the storm."

"If homebuilding is not regenerated now, the 1960s will see the worst housing shortage in all our history. It's up to us here and now to act before time and that annual crop of four million new babies forces the government to take over completely."

Banks in Ontario estimate that currency in the mining districts get such wear and tear the bills must be replaced within eight months.

Senate Starts Inquiry Into Payoff Claims

WASHINGTON (AP)—A manufacturer's testimony that he made payoffs to a Teamsters Union official with the "consent" of the government and with funds from the Navy sent Senate rackets probers off today on a new tack.

Earl P. Bettendorf, who operates pallet manufacturing plants at Ashdown, Ark., and Sandston, Va., variously called the payments "bribes" and denied they were bribes, in testimony at a public hearing yesterday before the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) ordered a swift follow-through inquiry into the facts about Bettendorf's story that the Navy supplied him with $18,591.30 "so the union could be paid off."

The amount of the alleged payoffs remained uncertain, however. Bettendorf said he paid a total of about $4,000. He did not explain what was done with the rest of the money.

Bettendorf testified that the payments went to Joseph McHugh, a business agent of the Scranton, Pa., Teamsters Union local. The witness said the payments were made to get the union's permission for his trucks to make deliveries at the government's Signal Corps depot at Tobyhanna, Pa.

"I was paying him a bribe," the manufacturer said of McHugh at one point. "I paid it with the complete knowledge of the U. S. government." He also said he paid with the government's "bribe and consent."

But Bettendorf also insisted that he did not consider it was a bribe. Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass) retorted that "there is no other word for it" and added, "A bribe is against the law."

McHugh and Robert Malloy, another business agent for the union, are under federal indictment in Scranton now on charges of receiving $4,200 from Bettendorf.

Bettendorf insisted that not only did the government know he was making the payments, but that he cooperated with the FBI for two years while the case was under investigation.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the United States delivered 570 million dollars worth of military goods to free world nations in the last half of 1956.

In a semiannual report to Congress on the mutual security program, Eisenhower said those shipments brought to nearly $14,800,000 the value of military aid to friendly nations since the program was started in 1950.

"Under present world conditions," Eisenhower added, "I am convinced that this (mutual security) program is, more than ever, essential to the security of the United States."

Most of the military deliveries during July-December 1956 went to Europe and the Far East—over 40 per cent to Europe and 33 per cent to the Far East, the report said.

More than half the deliveries consisted of aircraft and related equipment, slightly less than a third was ground forces equipment, and the remainder comprised naval goods.

Deliveries in the last half of the year were considerably less than the $1,900,000,000 shipped in the first six months of 1956. The main reason, the report said, was a decline "in the quantity of off-the-shelf items available for ready delivery."

Of the two billion dollars earmarked for military assistance appropriated for the current fiscal year, the report said, "programs totaling $1.2 billion dollars were under implementation by the end of December 1956."

The report reviews all activities of the International Cooperation Administration, the agency which administers the foreign aid program. However, the document does not give a country-by-country breakdown of aid received.

In the field of technical aid, the report said about 4,400 U. S. technicians, including those under private contract, were working in more than 50 "less developed" nations.

Eisenhower said that during the current fiscal year, "there has been much greater emphasis on concentrating available resources on programs most directly related to the achievement of basic policy objectives of the United States, with a consequent elimination of projects of marginal significance."

Eisenhower said the six-month period was marked by "encouraging progress."

He said "increased military effectiveness" in the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization was due to U. S. assistance to Pakistan, Thailand and the Philippines.

More than 626 million dollars programmed for defense support in the six-month period was designated for three Asian countries, Korea, Formosa and free Vietnam.

The report said ICA has sought to encourage domestic private enterprise in the less developed countries, and to improve understanding of private industry.

The report mentioned that delivery of military equipment to Yugoslavia at the end of 1956 was "minimal."

Woman Is Cheered Upon Return to Arena Year After Bad Fall

OMAHA (AP)—Cheers rang in the ears of Emily Greenwald last night in the same arena where gasps of horror had sounded a year ago when she plummeted 40 feet to the hardwood floor.

Emily came back before a crowd that included many who had seen her near-fatal fall. The cheers sent a spirited smile flashing across her face.

A broken wrist strap was the cause of her fall in the Shrine circus last year. She was spread-eagled on a spinning ring suspended from her husband Albert's teeth. The fall resulted in multiple fractures of the pelvis, a crushed left hip and a smashed wrist.

Doctors believed she would never walk again but 32-year-old Emily told them that more than anything else she wanted to return to the circus and she would. She was 13 weeks in a hospital and then returned to her Cedar Rapids home, where after weeks of practice she reached peak form and was ready for her comeback in the same circus in the same arena where she fell.

Rocket Soars to New World Record Altitude

WHITE SANDS PROVING GROUND, N. M. (AP)—An Aerobee-Hi rocket soared to a new world record altitude for single stage booster rockets today.

Officials here said the rocket reached a peak altitude of between 180 and 200 miles.

"One recent project for a warning system was given up by a major concern because of excessive cost and research even though the company had a 10-million-dollar backlog of orders," Bernard Oldfield, Hughes Aircraft flight operations chief, said.

Plenty of Security

DETROIT (AP)—"I want a loan and this is my security," said a man pointing a .45 automatic at Asst. Manager Jerry Gill of the Aetna Finance Co.

The gunman ordered Gill to back away from the counter. Then he locked six other employees and two customers in a washroom.

Envoy Unable To Solve India, Pakistan Tangle

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—A special envoy for the U. N. Security Council reported today that he could not find a plan to break the deadlock between India and Pakistan over Kashmir.

Swedish U. N. Delegate Gunnar Jarring submitted a five-page report to the Council on his recent conferences in Karachi and New Delhi.

Though he said he could find no proposals to a settlement, the envoy added he felt "both parties are still desirous of finding a solution."

When India and Pakistan were freed in 1947, the princely state of Kashmir was left free to join either India or Pakistan. The Hindu Maharajah of Kashmir subsequently acceded to India, but Pakistan held he did not represent the state's people, most of whom are Moslems.

After tribal warfare and armed occupation by both Indian and Pakistani troops, the Security Council in 1948 and 1949 called for a cease-fire, demilitarization and a plebiscite to determine the state's future. Only the cease-fire resulted and India now claims the richest portion of the state has become part of India.

Saluting, Not Shooting

Marines of US 6th Fleet Go Ashore Grinning in Beirut

ABOARD USS MOUNT MCKINLEY, in Beirut (AP)—Marines of the U.S. 6th Fleet went ashore in the Middle East today, wearing tropical dress uniforms rather than battle fatigues and grins instead of grenades.

While 50 other ships of the fleet conducted air defense maneuvers, six transports with 1,800 men of the 6th Marines' 2nd Battalion moved into Beirut harbor for a liberty party.

A two-pounder gun on this flagship of the amphibious force boomed separate 21-gun salutes for Lebanon and President Camille Chamoun as the force entered the harbor at 9 a.m.

"We were prepared to shoot our way into a trouble spot if necessary," said Cmdr. John Jones of Chatsworth, Ga., executive officer of the Mount McKinley.

"It is good to be using salute guns to do the shooting."

As this correspondent flew over in a Navy transport plane yesterday, the powerful 6th Fleet, 7,500 feet below was four lines of slim gray shapes drawing white stripes across the brilliant Mediterranean blue.

The supercarrier Forrestal, center of the fleet, steamed briskly into the wind as planes landed on its flight decks.

To the Forrestal's right were the heavy cruisers Des Moines and Salem, the latter the flagship of Vice Adm. Charles (Cat) Brown, fleet commander.

Ahead, behind and to the sides rode nine destroyers in two lines. Further wispy stripes told of the presence of other warships, presumably the battleship Wisconsin, the carrier Lake Champlain and a dozen lesser vessels.

The great force was barely 100 miles off Beirut, and only scant minutes by jet plane from Jordan. Aboard our plane were nine officers being reunited with their ships, which put to sea on Thursday after sudden midnight orders from Washington.

"Our home at last," said Capt. Frank Voris of Stuart, Fla. He was the highest ranking of the nearly 300 men left behind when the 6th Fleet sailed from European ports to scare off foreign intervention that might dethrone Jordan's King Hussein and partition his crisis-ridden kingdom.

Voris is chief medical officer on the Forrestal. He was on leave in Switzerland when the carrier left Cannes, on the French Riviera.

Adm. Brown himself was in a hospital at the Landstuhl, Germany, Army Medical Center when the sailing orders came. He checked out of the hospital and was aboard a plane heading for Beirut in 45 minutes. A helicopter dropped him on the Salem, which sailed immediately.

Body of Famed Torch Singer Is Sent East

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The body of Belle Baker, renowned torch singer of the jazz and vaudeville era, will be sent to New York City, where she was born, for burial.

Miss Baker died in a hospital Sunday night, two days after she was stricken with a heart attack at her home in Beverly Hills. She was 58.

The 1920s and 30s—the era of Floren Ziegfeld, Sophie Tucker, the Palace Theater in New York, prohibition, night clubs and radio—saw Miss Baker in her heyday.

She had a vaudeville following virtually equal that of Sophie Tucker. She was tops on radio.

Miss Baker, a vaudeville performer at 14, introduced such great hits as Irving Berlin's "Blue Skies" and "Always." She did some silent movies and, in 1929, an early sound film, "The Song of Love."

She had lived in Beverly Hills since retirement in 1954. She was married twice. Her first husband, Maurice Abrahams, New York music publisher, died in 1931.

She and Eli Sugarmann, theatrical magazine editor, were married in 1937 and divorced in 1941.

She is survived by a son by her first marriage, Herbert Baker, Hollywood screen writer; a brother, Murray, and three sisters.

L. Owen, Jr., secretary; Mrs. Lloyd Knox, treasurer; and Mrs. Walter Strickert, historian.

Airliner Catches Fire And Explodes, None Aboard Are Injured

BALTIMORE (AP)—A DC7 airliner with six crewmen aboard caught fire and exploded early today at Friendship International Airport. Three crewmen were injured but all six got out without help.

The Pan American World Airways Clipper had been practicing touch-and-go landings with no passengers aboard. It burst into flames while taxiing down the runway before taking off for New York's Idlewild Airport.

Pilot E. D. Morris sprained his ankle when he jumped from the plane. "It's too late to talk," he said. "It's against company policy."

Two other crewmen were in University Hospital. Francis Harrington suffered a broken right ankle and John Troka a broken left ankle and foot.

The four-engine plane was badly burned on the outside, but the interior escaped serious damage.

IT'S THE DREAM CAR TO DRIVE
—THE BIGGEST VALUE TO BUY

To Buy Or Not To Buy?

Millions of Americans own property purchased by savings; and more millions pile up nest eggs which they prefer to put out at interest or some other return.

Buying stocks and watching the stock tables go up and down is a nationwide pastime. Some persons buy stocks which bring small return; some choose to buy speculative stocks and take their chance on a big haul or losing it all.

Should a person who never owned stock, take a flyer? Many have asked that question and answered it to their joy or sorrow.

A well reasoned answer to this dilemma—to buy or not to buy—is offered by Sam Shulsky, a well known authority on investment matters, writing in the Seattle Post Intelligencer. He points out that every family has its own special financial problems, needs, prospects and responsibilities, and these vary widely. They must be taken into full consideration when considering stock purchases. In every case, basic requirements and protections, such as adequate insurance, have prior claim.

Once a decision to buy stock is made, another question arises. Are you most interested in the safety of your principal — or do you want to run a risk and speculate in the hope that the value of your stock will show a big growth? Your answer to this and related questions will naturally determine the kind of stock you choose.

The next step is to visit a reliable broker — and that word "reliable" is all important. Don't be one of the suckers who fall for the blandishments of tipsters and high pressure telephone salesmen. Reliable and reputable brokers deal in facts, and they do their best to tailor their proposed programs to your situation.

Finally, Mr. Shulsky urges against being impetuous about investing your money. There's no need to rush. Investigate fully before you make a move. Remember you worked hard for that money. Now that you have decided to invest it, don't act as though you were at a charity raffle.

Sam has the answers all right. The trouble is too many listeners have speculative bingo-blood in their veins; they want to win a prize quick on five grains of corn.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Debate McLeod As Ireland Ambassador

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today begins hearings on whether Scott McLeod, the State Department's controversial, likable security officer, shall be promoted to be ambassador to Ireland. The debate will hinge on two things:

1. Is Ireland being imposed upon merely because Foster Dulles wants to get rid of his security officer? Some senators believe Ireland is too important and too friendly to be a diplomatic dumping ground. Many Irish feel the same way, are too polite to say so.

2. Other senators are sore at the way McLeod and his security office haled up relations with Canada by cooperating with Senator Eastland's committee regarding the Canadian ambassador who committed suicide in Egypt.

In view of the Senate controversy, it might be interesting to go back and see just who Scott McLeod is and how he got where he is today.

When Dulles became Secretary of State, he conceived the bright idea of ending all McCarthy attacks on the State Department by appointing a friend of McCarthy's as security officer. Dulles conferred with astute, kindly Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, who has served longer than any other Republican and who recommended his own administrative assistant, Scott McLeod—a friend of McCarthy's.

In Dulles's Hair

Dulles promptly appointed him. He saw a chance to curry favor both with McCarthy and the powerful senator, Bridges, who sat as chairman of the appropriations committee.

McLeod then proceeded to tear the State Department to pieces. He had detectives and private eyes looking under tables and peeking into closets. He used State Department security men to move his furniture into his new home. He appointed the police chief of Hanover, N.H., Andrew Ferguson, to a job in Europe to give him a free trip abroad.

He condoned an order asking German servants to spy on American officials abroad. He complacently watched the book-burning spree of McCarthy's two wandering agents, Cohn and Schine. His security agents tried to get doctors to violate their sacred oath not to talk about their patients.

And when his chief, the Secretary of State, appointed Charles Bohlen as ambassador to Russia, McLeod went over his head direct to the White House to protest. Bohlen has now returned from Moscow after having done the most outstanding job of any ambassador in history.

As part of his purge, McLeod appointed Dimitri Dikanikis, former writer for Time magazine, to prepare a special report on homosexuality and what it had done to bring about the collapse of other civilizations. Dikanikis found there were fewer pervers in the State Department than in the Army, Navy, and Air Force; that this had had no effect on the fall of Greece or Rome.

McLeod was annoyed by the report, buried it.

Guest Editorial—

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR: Pretty Natty, Mr. Sheriff. County sheriffs in Iowa are asking the state Legislature to authorize uniforms for them. A bill is pending to permit county boards thus to fit out the officers and their deputies.

In view of the fact that uniforms have come to be associated not only with city police forces but also with state police or highway patrols, this is a sensible proposal. In other states as well as Iowa it would be, as one of the proponents argues, "a protection for both the public and the officers."

Indeed, in a period when uniforms of some kind are de rigueur for theater, doormen, bus drivers, forest rangers, game wardens, motor vehicle registry inspectors, meter readers, SPCA men, and a host of others, a deputy sheriff may be at a slight disadvantage if he looks only like an ordinary citizen or at best a plainclothes detective.

This may leave federal marshals as about the only officers to identify themselves by their badges alone. Or a uniform may be superfluous for sheriffs in metropolitan communities whose function has developed into nine-tenths paper work. But there will always be on television a Wyatt Earp or some other frontier law enforcer to remind younger viewers what a deputy looked like when "I wouldn't do that if I was you mister," was sufficient identification for "the law."

Blocking Refugees

Scotty then turned himself loose on the question of immigration. Eisenhower had announced a policy of admitting 214,000 Iron Curtain escapees, and, to expedite this policy, Dulles appointed Edward Corsi, a New York Republican. When Corsi proceeded to carry out what he thought were presidential orders, he found himself blocked by McLeod. McLeod even sent a "shadow," Roy Wade, to watch Corsi on a trip to Europe.

Finally Corsi concluded that McLeod was more powerful—in regard to refugees—than the Secretary of State or the President. He resigned.

About this time, a congressional committee found that out of 190,000 refugees authorized for admission, only 1,779 were admitted.

These are some of the things which make it easy to understand why Mr. Dulles wants to get McLeod out of his hair, even at the expense of Ireland. He was so anxious that he first offered McLeod the job of ambassador to New Zealand, which Scotty vetoed because New Zealand was too far away. Then Dulles offered him the ambassadorship to nearby Honduras, which Scotty also vetoed because it was not important. Finally, the anxious Mr. Dulles offered him one of the choicest plums of all—Ireland. There he will replace William Howard Taft II, son of the late Senator Taft, even though Ike is anxious to get support from the Taft wing of the GOP.

Mr. Dulles no doubt will be watching the Senate debate with wistful eyes, hoping that McLeod will be out of his hair. But here's something the senators don't know: President Eisenhower won't be so wistful. He doesn't like McLeod, didn't approve of his appointment to Ireland, OK'd it only to please Dulles.

Note—Much Senate attention will focus on whether McLeod was or was not guilty of releasing the Herbert Norman data to Senator Eastland's committee. Actually he had left for Geneva April 1, was not in Washington when Norman committed suicide. But the Senate hearings on Norman were held March 12 and March 21. McLeod had a long-standing arrangement with Republican counsel Bob Morris of the Eastland committee. They were extremely close. Their arrangement for cooperation carried on whether McLeod was in Geneva or Timbuctoo.

Significantly, Robert Cartwright, McLeod's assistant, called Morris when Senator Eastland issued the statement that the State Department had OK'd release of the Norman data. Cartwright said he was being put on the spot. Morris consoled him, told his friend he had done his best to stop the statement. That's how closely the two offices cooperated.

Washington Pipeline

The government has ordered an exhaustive research program into the possibility of controlling tornadoes. It would use cloud seeding and mild explosives to disrupt them before they gather force. . . . It seems hard to believe, but the British government is considering towing oil around the African cape in huge plastic bags. The bags would hold 9,000 tons of oil and could be towed like giant sausages by tugboats. Anything to avoid paying tolls to Col. Nasser.

Back To The Park

A military revolution is unfolding before our eyes. The last American piston-engine fighter is scrapped. The famed B-17 bomber is dead and the few remaining piston types may not serve too much longer. The British intend to wipe out the RAF fighter command entirely and turn from jets to missiles.

And now, for the doubters who cannot quite measure the magnitude of this technical upheaval, the U.S. Army has presented a final bit of conclusive evidence: it is retiring from service its last 15 pigeons.

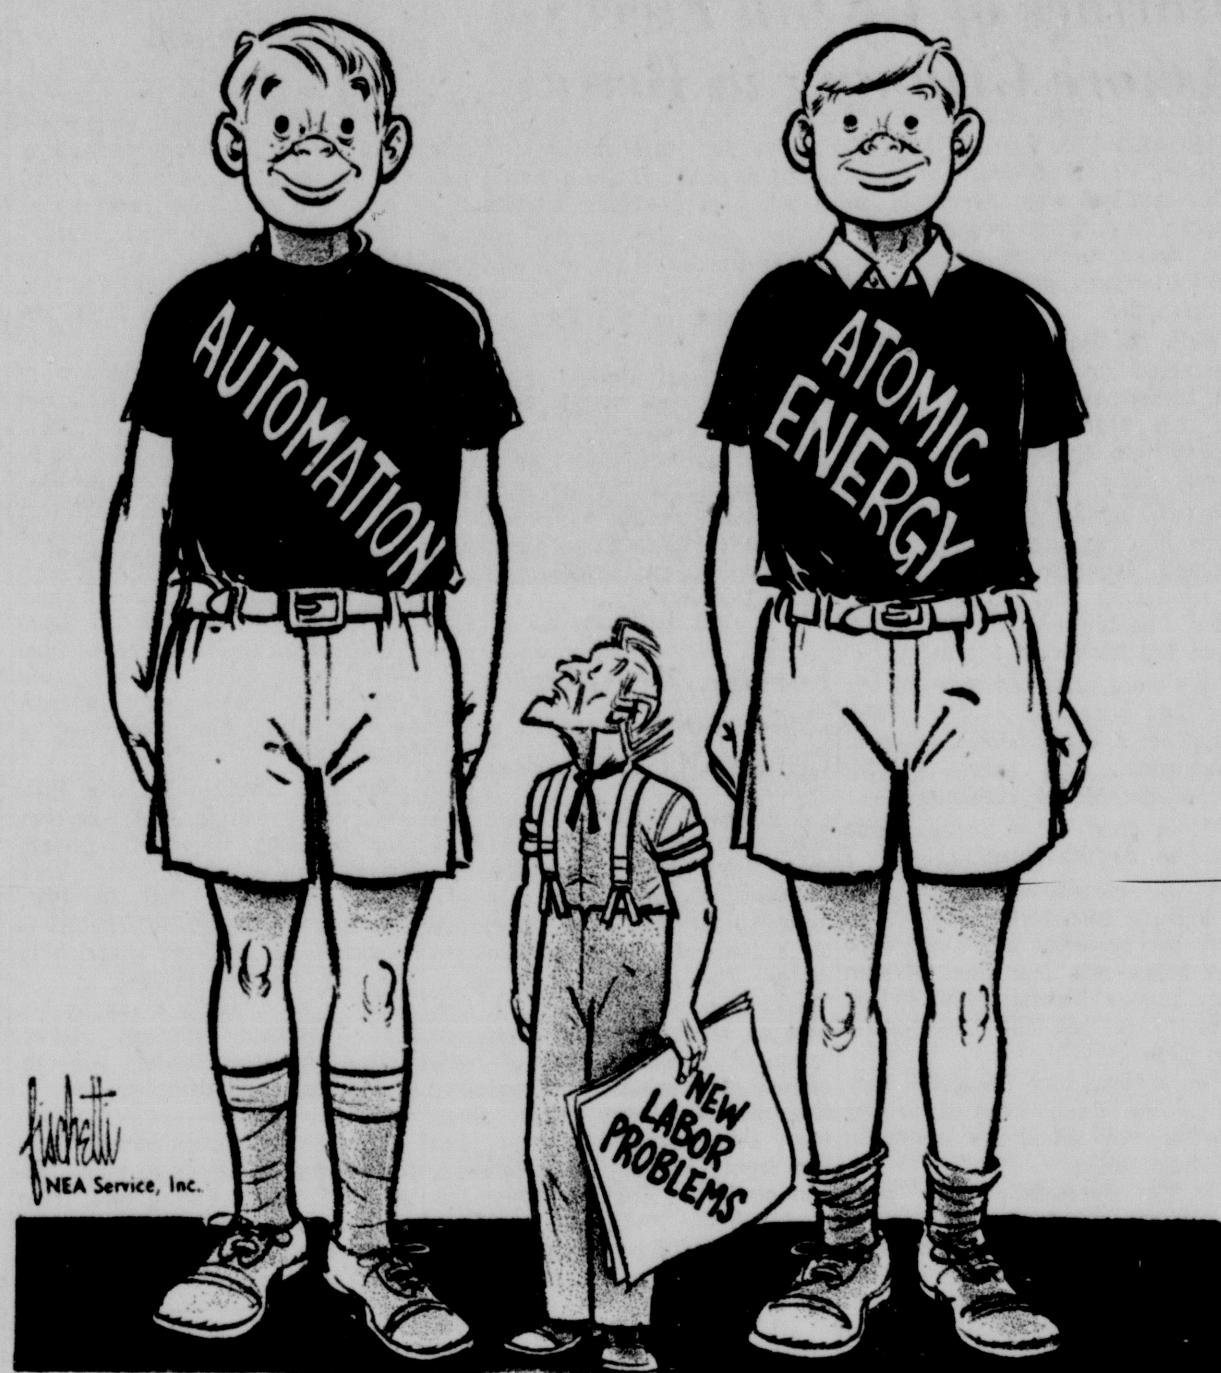

In World War II, about 40,000 pigeons carried untold thousands of messages and are credited with saving hundreds of soldiers' lives.

But the pigeons, like the old P-38's and P-47's, have been outdistanced by the advance of science, in this case swift and accurate electronic communication.

The last 15 all are honored heroes who now will be happily placed in public zoos about the country. A bit like a barracks, perhaps, but better than the sad oblivion of the old soldiers' home.

President Nasser's Dream Gets a Jolt

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Youthful King Hussein of Jordan has badly jolted Egyptian President Nasser's dream of a solid Arab world, with Nasser as leader. But Nasser had some strikes on him before that, and it's no wonder.

The Arab countries have a long history of jealousies and conflicts although, going back to the 19th century, when the Turks still bossed them, Arabs talked of the possibility of an independent Arab state some day.

The closest they could come to it was in 1945 when seven Arab nations — Egypt, Iraq, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Lebanon, Jordan and Yemen — formed the Arab League for joint action in all matters of common concern.

The motivating force for the league was the imminent creation of the new state of Israel. Now these Arab countries have in common religion, language, and hostility to the Jews. There also are strong feelings of nationalism and anticolonialism, both a direct result of the long hold on them by Turks, British and French.

After the war against Israel, the Arab League members even signed a collective defense pact. That was in 1950. It was the high-water mark of their unity.

Their defense agreement was virtually canceled out five years

Looking Backward...

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The road between Sedalia and Jefferson City on Highway 50 was closed at various places and motorists going to Jefferson City were advised to go by way of Columbia, or Versailles. The principal block was between Tipton and California, where new concrete slab was being laid.

Lee B. Ewing, attorney of Nevada, was in the city in interest of his candidacy as one of 13 congressmen from Missouri. He was seeking nomination on the Democrat ticket.

Various churches of Sedalia were uniting with civic organizations for observance of Boys Week April 3-May 7.

Over 100 Kansas Citizens on a good will tour were here for a dinner and program at Hotel Bothwell. The visitors spent time before the repast in calls on local business firms.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Whiprecht who had been residing on West Sixth moved to a suburban home on South Marshall Ave.

Members of the Sedalia Country Club at a meeting in the clubhouse elected Lee Montgomery president, R. F. Harris vice-president, F. M. Fulkerson secretary and W. F. Keyser treasurer.

Following rainfall the past four days came a heavy snowfall Monday noon, April 30, it being preceded by sleet that melted almost as fast as it hit the ground.

The new $10,000 church just completed at Houstonia by the Christian denomination there was opened Sunday, the first service being by the pastor, the Rev. Phil Stark. The dedication service was to be held in July.

W. H. Cloney left for Muskogee, Okla., to make a business visit of a few days.

later. First Iraq joined the Baghdad defense pact against Russia along with Iran, Turkey, Pakistan and Great Britain, with American backing. Then Egypt and Syria the same year made a defense agreement between themselves.

By that time — 1955 — Nasser was in the saddle in Egypt, preaching pan-Arabism, playing on the Arab's anticolonial distrust of the West, their hatred of the Jews. By sheer talk and drive he pushed himself into a leadership position.

And he made himself a rallying point for all Arab nationalists in 1956 when, angered because this country refused him money to build a dam, he seized the Suez Canal. After that to make concessions was to lose face and leadership.

He needed big support to help him weather the storm of his opposition to the West. Naturally, he turned to anti-Western Russia. It became convenient then for the pro-Communists and the extreme Arab nationalists in the Middle East to work together, or at least toward some of the same ends.

But four of the seven Arab League members are kingdoms — Iraq, Jordan, Saudi Arabia and Yemen, which is too small to have significance. Two, Syria and Lebanon, are republics. Egypt calls itself a republic.

The longer Nasser defied the West and the closer he tried to pull the Arab world toward reliance on Russia, the more unhealthy it became for the kings of Iraq, Jordan and Saudi Arabia. There is no future for them with communism.

Therefore, it would be convenient for Nasser — particularly with his dreams of dominating the Arab world — if the kings were gone. It's no accident King Hussein blamed Egypt and communism for the riots in Jordan against his government this month.

The kings are not stupid either. If Hussein were dethroned now, the kings of Iraq and Saudi Arabia could tremble for themselves in the future. It was natural that they rallied to Hussein's help.

The kings of Jordan and Iraq are cousins, and ancient family enemies of the King of Saudi Arabia. But all three kings have their skins to save. They buried the old feuds and played together to save Hussein.

In addition to this, the kings all need money, if only to pay their armies to keep them on their thrones. All three have received American help in one form or another. But Jordan needed even more after Britain stopped paying it 35 million dollars a year.

Nasser could hardly provide the money. And they couldn't accept it from Russia without getting themselves tangled in Russian leading strings. Now Hussein, just a few days after making it sound as if he didn't want American economic help, is going to accept 10 million dollars from this country.

Nasser has lost ground. So has Arab solidarity. In an effort to recapture some of what he has lost, Nasser may overreach himself and antagonize more Arabs. If he begins making concessions to the West he loses face.

He's in a hot spot. He'd be gone now if the United States hadn't pulled Britain and France off his back when they invaded Egypt last fall. But any talk now from Hussein or the other kings about Arab unity is window dressing for local consumption. They made their choice.

Many a wife who writes to this column makes a harsh comparison between the man she married and the man he has become.

Most of these wives blame their husbands for "changing so completely" after marriage. Few ever stop to ask themselves if they might have had something to do with the kind of husbands the men they married have become.

Any woman who felt lucky to get the man she married — only to discover after a few years of marriage that she doesn't feel at all lucky for having the husband she does — ought to ask herself a few questions.

How often did she point out his faults to him when she might better have looked for something to praise? Whose wants and ambitions has she made important, hers or his? When she has compared him with other men has it been to his advantage or to his disadvantage? Has her husband come home at night to find a happy, gay companion or to listen to a tale of woe? Has she done her own job of homemaking well enough to win his respect and admiration, or has she been doing her job half-heartedly or even grudgingly?

Has she tried to make a place for herself in the community or has she sat back and envied the women who are doing things, blaming her own discontent on the fact that her husband doesn't share his life with her?

Has she really loved her husband or just wanted continual evidence that he loves her?

Has she taken pains to stay as attractive-looking as possible, even

HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDELIGHTS FROM YOUR STATE CAPITOL

Reconsideration of bills defeated in the house wasted so much time recently that Rep. Clifford Jones, republican floor leader, commented that "maybe the people were right" in turning down a legislative pay raise.

The house defeated a pay raise for 3rd class county circuit clerks and ex officio recorders three times before finally relenting and passing the bill. A bill to set up a human rights commission to investigate racial and religious prejudice was defeated twice and a bill to charge a flat $15 for all car license plates also was turned down twice by the house.

Reconsideration of defeated legislation has taken up three or four days of legislative time since the procedure is lengthy and requires several votes and much debate.

Rep. Warren Hearn, house majority door leader, says house bills not in position for passage by May 1 may be considered dead issues.

Hearn said the house will not work on the perfection calendar after May 1 — except in extraordinary cases. This means that only bills which have passed the senate or which need only one more vote in the house will be in position for passage before the session ends May 31.

In the senate, Sen. George Spencer, majority floor leader, agrees that senate bills on the perfection calendar after May 1 would have little chance of passage. However, he said the senate perfection calendar was "pretty well cleared" and the senate is now in a position to handle measures already passed by the house and senate bills ready for passage.

The house recently advanced a proposal to repeal the King-Thompson law despite predictions that the public would support the anti-strike statute by a vote of 15 to one.

The house amended the bill to require a public vote on whether the 10-year-old law should be repealed. The King-Thompson act bars strikes for public utilities and provides for state seizure and operation of a strike bound utility such as an electric, water, gas, telephone or transportation company.

Rep. Floyd Snyder (D-Jackson County) predicted that the repeal of the King-Thompson law would be defeated by a vote of 10 or 15 to one if the proposal is referred to the public.

Rep. Roy Amlin, speaker of the house, ruled that the bill was perfected on a voice vote although the "noes" seemed to have outnumbered the "ayes."

A special interim committee will be requested to study the problem of either restoring or rebuilding the ancient Governor's mansion in Jefferson City.

A House-Senate committee now studying the problem decided there was not enough time before the end of the present session to come to any decision. Senator George A. Spencer, Democrat Columbia, the chairman, said a request will be made to the legislature to set up a committee to work between legislative sessions and study the cost of a new mansion or restoring the old one.

Architects have estimated it will take a half-million dollars to restore the old mansion to its original condition, $600,000 to restore and modernize it and at least $200,000 to build separate living quarters for the Governor on the mansion grounds.

"Where is Orange Street?" someone asked one of the girls at the Chamber of Commerce office who answered the telephone recently.

"There isn't any Orange Street in Sedalia," she said.

"There must be," he insisted. "This person I am trying to find lives on Orange Street."

"Who are you trying to find?" she asked.

The man told the name of the person and she looked the name up in the city directory.

"They don't live on Orange Street," she told him. "They live on Osage." — H. L.

Nurses Head At Midwest Hospital Meet

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Janes, director of nurses at Bothwell Hospital, attended the Mid-West Hospital Convention in Kansas City April 24-26.

Talks on disaster planning for small and large hospitals, the chronic problem of personnel shortages, and hospital-community relationships were given close attention by the 2,000 delegates attending the sessions.

Mrs. Margaret S. Barber, Kansas City, executive secretary for the hospital group, said there were representatives from more than 800 hospitals in Arkansas, Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Wyoming in attendance to hear talks by national authorities in the hospital field.

Prominent speakers scheduled for the 3-day program included Tol Terrell, president-elect of the American Hospital Association; Dr. Harold C. Luth, member of the Council on National Defense of the American Medical Association; and Verne Kallejian, Ph. D., educational director of the American Hospital Association.

The general sessions attracted administrators, staff members and other hospital personnel, while there were special sectional meetings for auxiliaries, accountants, dietitians, executive housekeepers, nurses, pharmacists, medical record librarians and maintenance personnel.

Kansas City's Exhibition Hall, site of the convention, was filled with hundreds of displays featuring the latest advances in hospital accessories and equipment. Approximately 150 exhibitors participated in the show.

On April 22-23, preceding the convention, the American Hospital Association held a two-day Institute for administrators and assistant administrators of hospitals located in small and rural communities. It was limited to 90 participants and spotlighted "Ways to Improve Patient Care Through Better Utilization of Existing Community Resources".

Embassy Officials Ask Dr. Paul White To Attend Lebanese

PARIS (AP)—American Embassy officials in Beirut have urgently requested that Dr. Paul Dudley heart specialist, fly there at once to attend Lebanese Premier Sami Solh, informed sources here said today.

The premier's condition was described as "worsening." The message was to be relayed this morning to White at Orly Airport, where his plane from New York was due to stop briefly. White is en route to Rome and the Middle East to give a series of medical lectures.

The message from the Beirut Embassy urged that White come directly there, adding "Wednesday may be too late." The pro-Western Premier was taken to the American University Hospital in Beirut after becoming ill Sunday. Apparently there was some doubt about the diagnosis of his illness, first attributed to a heart attack and later to a lung congestion.

YOUR EYES AND VISUAL FUNCTIONS

Many years ago the American Optometric Association had as its president a man by the name of R. C. Augustine. Dr. Augustine on many occasions told the fascinating story of his life. He related how as an early teen aged boy he was incorrigible, always in trouble at school and with the police. At fourteen years of age he quit school and ran away from home. But for the grace of God, he said, he would have ended up in the reform school or the penitentiary.

Fortunately for him, he related, an optometrist examined his eyes and fitted him with glasses. For the first time in his life he was able to see the tops of trees as branches where the birds nested, the grass in the yard as individual blades, or the weatherboard on the house as anything other than a smooth, unbroken surface.

His new glasses opened up a new vista of life for him, made it possible to study without excruciating headache, and he went back to school and on to become one of the outstanding and much respected leaders of early day optometry.

Much progress has been made since that early day in detecting the need for vision care and in providing better remedial and developmental measures for the visually handicapped child. The Missouri Optometric Association however, takes this means of calling attention to the fact that only by early and frequent visual analyses, carefully made, can the parent or teacher know whether or not a child is visually adapted for the school work assigned to him.

AUSSIE AUDITORIUM—This is the prize-winning design in the worldwide contest for a new State Opera House for Sydney, Australia. Selected from 222 entries, the spectacular, imaginative design, described as "white sails billowing in the sunset," is the work of 38-year-old architect Joern Utzon, of Helleback, Denmark. The auditorium is to seat 3,000 to 3,500 people, with a smaller concert hall for 1,200, and a lecture room for up to 200. Utzon has been awarded the top prize of $11,250 for his design. A group of architects from Philadelphia, Pa., was awarded second prize of $4,500.

Blanks Concordia Here 6-0; Plays Warsaw Wednesday

A sparkling four-hit pitching performance by Wilhite, backed by sharp defensive play by his teammates boosted the Smith-Cotton Tigers into the finals of the Missouri sub-district baseball tournament here Monday with a 6-0 whitewash over St. Paul's of Concordia.

Opposing Sedalia in the finals Wednesday afternoon will be Warsaw, who cooled Cole Camp Monday afternoon, 6-5.

Wilhite, a standout freshman, was the winning pitcher, allowing only four scattered hits and one walk in seven innings, and furthered his own cause by collecting two hits himself. Rohlfing was the loser, giving up seven safeties and six runs.

Bob Garrison topped the Tigers in hitting with two for two, also scoring three of his team's runs.

Pick, Concordia third sacker, picked up two hits in three at-bats for the losers.

Smith-Cotton temporarily breaks away from tournament play today to take on Jefferson City in a Central Missouri Conference game. Coach Gilmore has picked senior Larry Clark to pitch against the Jays.

The Sedalia Park Board will hold its annual spring meeting with managers of baseball and softball teams at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. The meeting will be in the convention hall at Liberty Park.

All managers of teams are urged to be present at this meeting so arrangements can be made for the scheduling of the various ball diamonds. It is pertinent the managers be present and prepared to discuss the days and nights they will desire the hard ball diamond at Liberty Park and the softball diamonds at Center and House Parks.

If the Industrial League is to organize the league representatives must be present at this meeting to arrange for the House Park diamond.

Robinson Has Visions of KO In Title Bout

CHICAGO (AP) — "Why go 15 rounds if you only have to go one?"

Sugar Ray Robinson authored this pearl of wisdom yesterday in a press interview following his final three-round boxing drill for tomorrow night's title rematch with middleweight champion Gene Fullmer.

Although the man who has held the 160-pound crown three different times, didn't come right out and predict a knockout, it was evident that he was thinking in that direction. All he would say for the record is "My hopes are high, very high."

Boxing writers who watched the 36-year-old New Yorker go all through the motions, weren't overly impressed. They still remembered his failure to cope with the sturdy bully boy from West Jordan, Utah, in their Jan. 2 match at Madison Square Garden.

Reports persisted that Robinson plans to retire from the ring if he fails to regain the title.

Fullmer, who ended his training with a rugged five-round drill Saturday, was hidden away at a country club, waiting for time to go into town for Wednesday's noon weigh-in.

"In 15 rounds I got a pretty good idea of what he has to offer," said Fullmer. "But then you never know what the other fellow will do in the ring. I've licked him once and with faith in the Lord, I'll lick him again."

The bout will be televised and broadcast nationally (ABC, 8 p.m. CST).

With $100,000 for TV rights and the money from the gate, Fullmer and Robinson each should get about $65,000 as they are signed to contracts calling for 30 per cent each.

The Illinois Athletic Commission will instruct the referee who will work the 15-round match to call for any signs of rabbit punching or holding in a clinch.

"Our referees have been instructed that a rabbit punch (on the back of the neck) is a foul and that maintaining a clinch or hanging on to an arm is a foul," said Frank Gilmer, commission chairman.

Fullmer weighed 156 after his last workout Saturday and Robinson's camp said he weighed about 162. Both men expect to hit the 160-pound limit "on the nose" at the weigh-in.

Sacred Heart Pays Tribute To Athletes and Cage Stars

More Than 160 Persons Attend Dinner Monday

Sacred Heart High School paid tribute to its athletes and honored two basketball stars at the third annual banquet held in the school's new cafeteria Monday night. More than 160 persons were in attendance. The program was highlighted by presentations to Mark Mettler, 1957 All-State basketball player and Bill Hodges, who was named an All-State player in 1952.

The oddity of the banquet, when presentations of letters, awards and trophies were made, was the fact the Sacred Heart School this year has no Senior girls and the boys monopolized the night. But promises of stronger girls competition was promised when presentation was made to the Junior girls who will be Seniors next year.

The Rev. A. J. Brunswick, Sacred Heart's pastor and superintendent, gave a short talk in which he expressed the appreciation of the Sacred Heart parish to those who have cooperated through the year in assisting the school work, and for the excellent support given the teams by the newspapers and radio. Rev. Brunswick paid tribute to the boys and girls who participated in the athletic program of the school in not only building spirit but in their conduct as sportsmen and women.

The Rev. G. P. Pelletier was master-of-ceremonies at the banquet. He reviewed the past season of the basketball teams, the boys' and girls' softball and volleyball teams. He told of some humorous happenings during the season with the team and praised the basketball team for winning its first PBCAA championship, although co-champions with Smithton.

He praised each player for his fine sportsmanship on and off the court. Attention was called to a recent resolution passed by officials in which Sacred Heart was cited as one of the teams they most enjoyed officiating over.

Captains of the teams this year, Mark and Marvin Mettler, co-captains of the basketball team, Ruth Ann Bahner, captain of volleyball, Paul Bahner, captain of softball, and Linda Wiesing, captain of the girls' softball team, were called upon for brief "thank you" talks. Coach Palmer Nichols, who has coached the Gremlins cage teams since they began playing in their new gym in the season of 1949-50, praised the players, reviewed the history of the Gremlins since he has been their coach, winning 134 and losing 71 games up to the past season.

Nichols gave a brief history of basketball, how and when it was founded, the rules then and the rules of today.

He paid tribute to both Bill Hodges, who was named to the Class "B" All-State team in 1952, and to Mark Mettler, named to the Class "S" team the past season. He explained that in 1952 the state was divided into two divisions, "A" and "B" while now they are classed as Class "L", Class "M" and Class "S," the latter being the class in which Sacred Heart School plays.

Rev. Pelletier called attention to the table in front of the speakers table on which were several trophies. It had the first place PBCAA tournament trophy won at Green Ridge; second place trophy won at the Knob Noster tournament; second place trophy won at the Warsaw tournament, in which the Gremlins missed first place by two points; the grade school second place trophy won in the Hubbard tournament; and the fourth place trophy won in the sub-regional state tournament.

Short talks were made by D. Kelly Scruton, sports editor of the Democrat-Capital, who reviewed the selection of Mark Mettler to the All-State and emphasized that both Mettler and Hodges won their honors through their own endeavors as players and sportsmen. Scruton also paid tribute to their fellow players, who made their playing more outstanding.

Jimmy Glenn, sportscaster for KDRO radio, which broadcast the Gremlin games during the season, praised the boys. He reviewed some of the games and described his troubles when the confusing Mettler twins were in the game. Milton Heinlein, of KDRO-TV and Radio, also spoke and praised the team. Heinlein introduced Miss Le Chapman, the new general manager of KDRO-TV.

Also seated at the head table were the Rev. J. T. Nolan of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, the Rev. James Schrader of Sacred Heart, Mrs. Jimmy Glenn, Mrs. Palmer Nichols and Mrs. D. Kelly Scruton.

After these talks, the presentations were made by Rev. Brunswick, with Rev. Pelletier calling out the names: Mark and Marvin Mettler received stars and bars for their letter and Paul Bahner received a bar; letters went to Donald Ressel, Thomas Moser, John Boul and John Martin, in basketball, Volleyball letters were presented to Ruth Ann Bahner, who also received a star, Corrine Jirik, Sue Keller, Rosalee Mergen, Mary Lou Vickers, Linda Wiesing, Mary Jane Dunham, Patricia Farris and Bernadine Klein. A softball star and bar went to Paul Bahner, bars were given to Mark and Marvin Mettler, Lee Redmond, Larry Grinstead, Donald Ressel and Thomas Moser, and a letter was presented to Monte Schreck. A girl's softball star and bar went to Linda Wiesing, bars to Mary Lou Vickers and Patricia Farris, and a letter to Patricia Seifner. A cheer leader emblem was presented to Linda Wiesing, and another letter to James Stohr, student manager. Medals were received by Sue Keller, Mizpah president, and James Jones, activities.

Gold basketballs were awarded to Mark and Marvin Mettler and Paul Bahner.

Plaques were awarded to Bill Hodges, for his All-State Honor of 1952, and Mark Mettler, for All-State 1957.

In addition to the basketball players already mentioned, the following freshmen were honored when, with the first string players, they were presented small trophies as a token for winning the PBCAA: Jim Couhig, Adam Fischer, Michael Edwards, Jim Wiesing and Bob Madorin.

Coach Palmer then announced the 1957-58 basketball captain. He named Donald Ressel for his outstanding playing and being the spark of the team the past season. Rev. Pelletier named the following captains of other teams: Girl's volleyball, Ruth Ann Bahner re-appointed; boy's softball, Thomas Moser; girl's softball, Linda Wiesing re-appointed.

The dinner was arranged and served by the activities committee of the Sacred Heart High School Parents' Club, with the assistance of the freshmen girls.

Model Plane Contest Big Success Sunday

The model airplane contest held at the Sedalia Memorial Municipal Airport attracted one of the largest local crowds that has ever witnessed such competition in this area. There were 41 contestants from Tulsa, Okla., Wichita and Lawrence, Kan., Kansas City, Independence and Raytown, and from various other sections of Missouri.

Only two fliers took part from the Sedalia Knucklebusters Club, Fred Salmons of Sedalia, and Harold McCain of Lincoln.

High winds plagued the fliers keeping their times low and also causing many fly-offs which had to be chased down by various means, some going as far as Ohio Avenue downtown and several landing in the area of 16th and Marshall.

Several of the little planes crashed. One craft, a City Boy 72 owned by Coe of Independence, was smashed into small pieces as it hit the ground, with only the motor worth salvaging.

Salmons topped the BC class to win first in the open and also the best in finished model. The best finish model was flown only once and then with a near disaster, looping and being saved only by a short engine run.

The flying had to be shifted to a field north of the runway due to the heavy winds, but was successfully handled after the location was set up for the fliers.

Planes which became lost and which are recovered can be returned to the owners through the Hill's Hobby Shop. Each plane is registered and bears a number

Jackie LaBua Alters Style, Beats Miceli

NEW YORK (AP)—A change in fighting style has put middleweight Jackie LaBua back on the winning path. The handsome, 24-year-old 155-pounder from East Meadow, N.Y., racked off his third straight victory last night with a decisive 10-round verdict over welterweight Joe Miceli, 147, at St. Nicholas Arena.

A disastrous 0-4 record for 1956 made Jackie switch his fighting ways.

"I decided to set my feet more for power, especially for infighting," said LaBua. "I'm able to get off more combinations that way, too. I'm doing a lot less jumping and dancing, as you must have noticed."

Jackie outpunched the sluggish New York veteran at least three to one. There were no knock-downs, LaBua bled from the nose from the fourth round on. Miceli was cut over the left eye in the ninth round.

The votes of the three judges, all for LaBua, were: Judge Lee Birnbaum, 8-2, Judge Joe Eppy, 6-3-1 and Referee Davey Feld, 5-4-1.

The U. S. Naval Bureau of Aeronautics now has a parachute that folds into a pack only two and a half inches thick.

The one and only mellow-mash bourbon

Yellowstone

Always one step mellow! The reason? Yellowstone's exclusive mellow-mash process draws off only the lightest, most desirable whiskey vapors in the still—leaves the "heavy" parts behind. That's why Yellowstone is even finer than sweet-mash bourbon—even smoother than sour-mash bourbon—so remarkably free of bite. Yes... mellow-mash Yellowstone takes more grain, more time, more money—but it gives you full bourbon flavor with truly light body. Once you taste Yellowstone, you'll know why it's been a favorite for 85 years... why it's called "the greatest American whiskey!"

Yinger New Head Grid Coach at Warrensburg

Hal Yinger has been named head football coach of the Central Missouri State College "Mules", at Warrensburg, to succeed Coach James L. Comer who has resigned. The announcement was made by Dr. Warren C. Lovinger, president of CMSC.

The CMSC regents have approved the appointment of Yinger to replace Comer who has accepted a position with school system at Chula Vista, California.

Yinger has served as assistant "Mule" line coach in recent years and as head track coach of the College. His track team was undefeated in both M.I.A.A. indoor and outdoor meets in 1955.

The new "Mule" football coach made all-conference in the Ohio Valley conference in 1946 during his student days at Eastern Kentucky State College at Richmond, where he earned a bachelor's degree. A center, he was a member of an undefeated team and was on two all-conference teams.

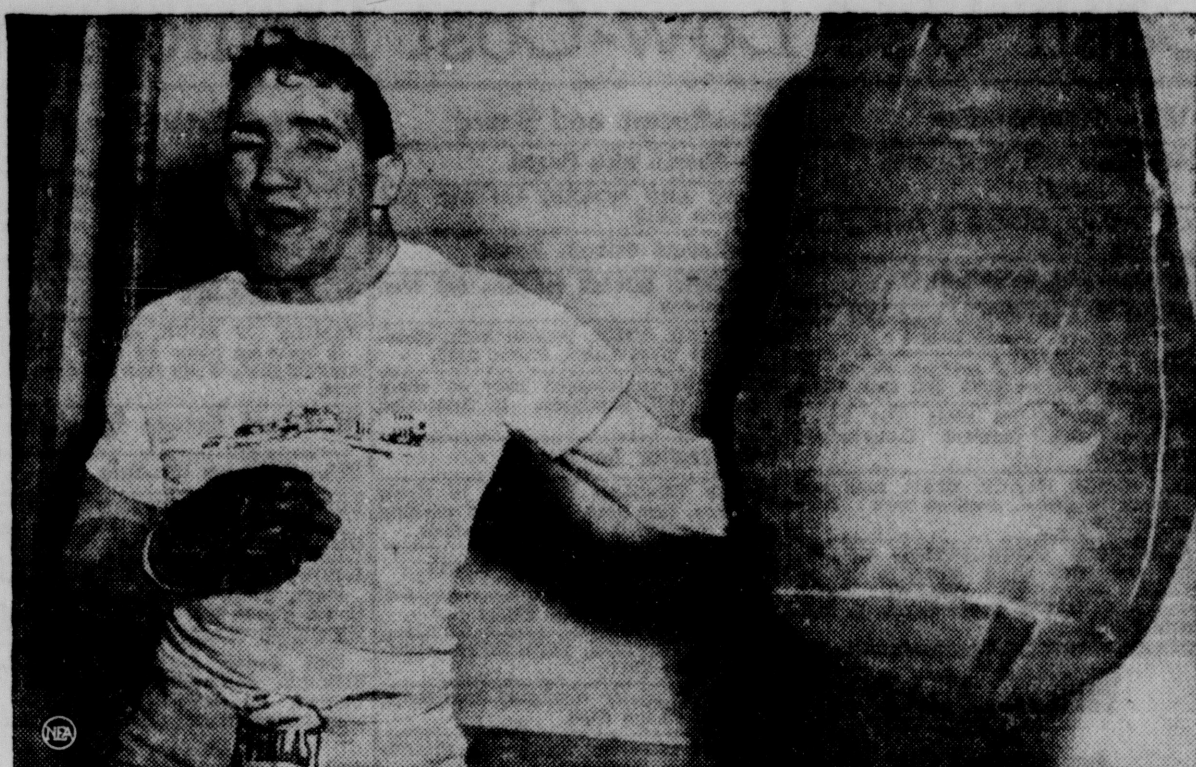

Yinger started his career at O.M.S.C. as a graduate assistant while getting his master degree. Upon graduation he served at Tarkio College in 1953, as head Football coach, and returned here the next year as an associate professor and line coach. His track coaching led to the 1955 undefeated record and at the same time has assisted in Football.

Now lacking only completion of a doctoral dissertation, Yinger completed residence requirements for a doctorate in the academic year of 1955-56 at Indiana University. His thesis deals with criteria for selection, retention and dismissal of physical education personnel in Missouri.

Yinger spent five years and two months on active duty with the air force reserve. Mr. and Mrs. Yinger holds a major's rank in the air force reserve. Mr. and Mrs. Yinger have one four-year-old son, Andrew Louis.

Comer's resignation becomes effective Aug. 31. He coached the C.M.S.C. footballers to a co-championship M.I.A.A. title the past season, the first time in 30 years.

GOES TO HIS HEAD—Middleweight Champ Gene Fullmer's face twists as he slams the heavy bag with a left hook. Fullmer is conditioning for his return bout with Ray Robinson, May 1 at Chicago Stadium. He trains at Tam o' Shanter Golf Club.

Fingers Cross After First Major Trade

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fingers were crossed in Boston and Washington today as a result of the first major trade since the 1957 baseball season opened two weeks ago.

In Boston, the question was whether a change of scenery will benefit southpaw Dean Stone, late of the Senators. If so, he could be just the man for the Red Sox, who are sorely lacking in left-handers.

In Washington, the fans were eager to see if Faye Throneberry and Milt Bolling could rectify glaring weaknesses at center field and shortstop.

These were the key men in the two-for-three swap, entailing no cash, announced yesterday.

The Senators sent Stone and right-handed pitcher Bob Chakales to Beantown in return for Throneberry, Bolling and Russ Kemmerer, a right-handed hurler who spent last year with San Francisco of the Pacific Coast League. The exchange culminated months of dickering between brothers-in-law Calvin Griffith, president of the Senators, and Joe Cronin, general manager of the Red Sox.

Griffith said he had been angling for two months to land the three players dispatched by Boston.

Mike Higgins of Boston said at Kansas City the Red Sox would "be greatly improved as a team" if Stone and Chakales deliver.

"I'm keeping my fingers crossed," he said.

Mel Parnell and rookie Jack Spring have been Higgins' only left-handers, and Parnell is on the disabled list with a bad elbow.

Charley Dressen, the Senator manager, said at Cleveland he was all set to use Throneberry at center field and Bolling at shortstop. The Senators play the Indians tonight, and Dressen said: "I only hope they get here before game time."

Major League Attendance Has Risen This Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Major league baseball attendance is up 7 per cent, an Associated Press survey revealed today.

The National League shows a gain of 64,682 over 1956 and the American 20,868 for an over-all increase of 85,550.

The world champion New York Yankees head both circuits. They attracted 129,736 customers for five home dates, 39,197 ahead of last year.

The Milwaukee Braves top the National League with 127,064, a hike of 19,191 over 1956. However, Milwaukee is moving behind its 1954 figure when it set the league mark and pulled 151,607 paid through the gates after six games.

Only five teams show deficits Detroit Tigers (21,609), St. Louis Cardinals (19,035), Kansas City A's (10,373), New York Giants (6,803) and Chicago White Sox (2,916).

Other sizable increases are being recorded by the Pittsburgh Pirates (25,637), Cincinnati Redlegs (22,291) and Philadelphia Phillies (12,160).

The Brooklyn Dodgers, who have been making threatening gestures in the direction of Los Angeles, are up 1,636. They have drawn 75,547 customers to Ebbets Field compared with 73,921 in five home dates a year ago.

Washington, which also considered moving its franchise last winter, is another team with attendance on the upswing. The Senators have played before 75,292 home fans and they had 69,780 in 1956.

The largest gate this year was 41,506 in the Braves' first home game April 18.

Caught Copying
MILWAUKEE (AP)—Eighth grade students in the Story school peaked at the desk calendar of their teacher, Mrs. Evelyn Fiebelkorn, and surmised she had a birthday coming up.

They arranged a surprise party with decorations, gifts, refreshments and a dance program.

Everything went fine except that the notation on the calendar turned out to be a reminder to the teacher of the birthday of her sister-in-law, another Evelyn Fiebelkorn, of Waterford, Wis.

John Playeth Hamlet Under Sire's Shadow

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Hark! what sounds do hail from yonder rehearsal hall?

Why, 'tis the sprig of John Barrymore, he the greatest Hamlet of his time.

Young John wouldst star with that pretty maid, Margaret O'Brien, in a youthful "Romeo and Juliet" at ye Pasadena Playhouse on the eve of May 9.

"I must be off my nut to try it," said John, who smelt a colorful phrase like his sire. "In the first place, I've never done any Shakespeare before. I'm sticking my neck out 10 miles because people will inevitably compare me with my father."

"How ridiculous can you get? I'm 24. My father didn't even attempt Shakespeare until he was 36 or 40. Until then, he had been considered a light actor."

His late sire's shade has haunted the lad during his seven-years as a player. Hence he now clefts himself John Drew Barrymore in all his billings.

"I've dropped the 'junior'," he spoke. "It just brought me nothing but trouble. People are always comparing me to my old man and we're nothing alike. (Note: John the younger quaffeth not the grape.)"

"Besides, fans are always confusing me with the other juniors in this town. When one of them gets in the headlines for attempting suicide or cracking up his car, I get a bunch of letters telling me life is worth living or to drive more carefully!"

The John Barrymore Jr. cognomen is now borne by his man-child. But the tyke's mother, a minor known as Cara Williams, protesteth: "I'm going to change the poor kid's name before he grows up. I don't want him to go through what Johnny has suffered."

Barrymore said he was approached for "Romeo and Juliet" by producer Albert McCleery, for whom he worketh on NBC-TV's "Matinee Theater."

Light Plane Bounces On Top of Truck

CABOOL, Mo. (AP)—Trying to land on U. S. 60 because of a heavy fog, two Wichita, Kan., men set their light plane down atop a big truck that was rolling along the road yesterday.

William Keaton, 21, the pilot, and Ray Lee Strickland were not hurt, although their plane bounced off the truck and was demolished in a ditch.

The unusual landing did little damage to the truck.

Two Bandits After Payroll Are Shot Down

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Gunfire shattered the quiet along a country road near here yesterday and killed two bandits officers said were plotting to grab an air base payroll today.

Gene Paul Norris, 35, an Oklahoma and Texas bandit known for a quick smile and a ready trigger, and William Carl Humphrey, 35, were felled by officers' bullets along the banks of rain-swollen Walnut Creek near Springtown, Parker County, northwest of here.

Texas Ranger Jay Banks said Norris and Humphrey planned today to kidnap a Carswell Air Force Base employee and a child of the employee and hold them as hostages. They then planned, Banks said, to use the employee's car during the holdup. The payroll at the base would run about $255,000.

The two men were being sought yesterday when they were spotted by Banks, Police Chief Cato Hightower, Sheriff Harlon Wright, Ranger Capt. Johnny Klevenhagen and Detective Capt. O. R. Brown near Lake Worth.

"We tried to stop them and they fired a shot," Banks said. The high-speed chase roared up a highway for several miles. Then the ex-convicts' auto took to a winding, muddy country road through farmland.

About five miles from the highway the bandits' auto skidded off the road and crashed. Both men spilled out of the car as Banks fought his auto to a stop.

"Then the shooting began," Banks said. "One of them, I don't remember which one, had a pistol. A shotgun came out of the car with them. They fired at us. We all came out shooting," he said. "They broke for the creek."

Red China Hikes Prices of Food To Stop Losses

HONG KONG (AP)—Red China announced today it is boosting prices of food and other consumer goods to recoup economic losses resulting from plunging too heavily in capital construction.

In an exceptionally candid broadcast, Peiping radio said the price hike was vital "to secure a balance in the budget and in the relation of the purchasing power to supplies."

The announcement said the rise on such items as pork, edible oils and woolen textiles would amount to "no more than 2 per cent spread over all consumer goods."

"Too heavy investments in capital constructions last year led to a shortage of raw materials and consequently to a rise in prices of handicraft products which went also to make up the price rise," the broadcast said.

As a result of the economic muddle, the Politburo fired Commerce Minister Tseng Shan. Vice Premier Chen Yun, a tough former union organizer, replaced him.

I don't know who hit which one."

Norris' tattered body splashed into the muddy river. Humphrey, covered with blood and slime from the creek bed, fell about 50 yards away.

Banks said the gunfight climaxed several days of investigation by local law enforcement agencies and the FBI. He said other men believed involved in the robbery plan were sought.

Norris was the brother of Thomas Nathan (Pete) Norris, Public Enemy No. 1 before being sent to Alcatraz. Gene Paul has a record of at least six convictions.

Humphrey, 35, born in Belton, Tex., has a long record of forgery.

US Says Story Of Trip Delay Is Erroneous

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—The United States would be delighted to receive Queen Elizabeth II at any time and a London report that Her Majesty's visit has been postponed until spring was described at President Eisenhower's headquarters here as "completely wrong."

The London Daily Sketch said today the President has yet to invite the Queen to visit this country.

Mrs. Eisenhower's health was advanced as a possible reason for the delay.

"My best pipelines into the White House say the trip definitely is postponed until next spring," wrote the Sketch's Washington correspondent Richard Greenough.

Referring to Greenough's mention of Mrs. Eisenhower's health, Hagerty said: "I am not even go-

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pentagon sources say the Army's Jupiter missile — completely assembled and carrying a dummy warhead — was successfully fired 600 miles last week end with what they called "satisfactory" accuracy.

These sources said the firing, witnessed by Secretary of Defense Wilson, marked the first successful launching of a complete military ballistic missile.

The Jupiter, under development by the Army at the Redstone, Ala., arsenal, is designed for a maximum range of 1,500 miles. Although test devices have flown thousands of miles and an incomplete Jupiter model reportedly went 1,200 miles, the sources said last Friday's launching marked the first complete ballistic assembly to achieve a 600-mile range.

Wilson, upon his return from the Florida test range, said he had seen a missile firing, but declined to specify the weapon involved.
